RE: Site Inspection, Interstate Gold and Gas, Lucky Boy Mine, S/003/021 (E/003/013), Box Elder County, Utah

Date of Inspection:

September 21, 1994

Time of Inspection:

2:30pm

Conditions:

Clear

Participants:

Tony Gallegos and Lynn Kunzler, DOGM

Purpose of Inspection:

Determine acreage and status of mine

No one else was present during this inspection. The site appeared to be beyond exploration and is now considered a small mine. Current disturbance (as determined by pacing and the vehicle odometer) is about 4 acres (1 acre at the site and 3 acres of road (1 mile long X 25' ave. width)). There was no equipment on site and appeared that no activity has been conducted for at least several days. There was a small stockpile of material in Yost that could have come from this site and there was a small loader by that stockpile.

It is recommended that the exploration file be closed. The Division's April 19, 1993 review letter of the Notice of Intent to Conduct Small Mining Operations stated that the Division could not accept an NOI that overlapped an exploration site until a site inspection was conducted and a progress report of the exploration project was submitted. The Division received the progress report May 10, 1993. The Site was inspected June 8, 1993 and September 21, 1994. It appears the Division can now accept the NOI and close the EXP file.

Photographs were taken of the area to document current status.
